

March 7, 2007

Happy Sunday, Swan Rangers!

It seems like Spring has sprung down here in the valley, so thought I'd share a few photos this Lone Swan Ranger took up on Infinity Ridge above Wildcat Lake last Wednesday 3/7/07, having snowshoed the safe ridge route up from Strawberry Lake Road.

The snow ghosts are shedding their thick white coats up there, but there are drifts that will be there for a while yet!

Wildcat Lake seen from the Jewel Basin boundary on Infinity Ridge.

Looking south down the Swan Crest.

The Dairy Queen cornice atop Infinity Ridge at 6,888 feet elevation.

Heading back down with great views of Flathead Lake.